

SYSTEMS AND METHODS FOR INVENTORY
MANAGEMENT

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A veterinary inventory management system is disclosed which includes a computer, a scanning device capable of interfacing to the computer, at least one printer capable of interfacing to the computer, and a computer program loaded and running on the computer. The computer program product enables the computer to identify product shortages and prepare product orders for a veterinary practice.